Foreword

As we look over the years of our schooling, we have seen how our lives have been molded into a sturdy foundation for the future. We have worked and studied to build a better relationship between students and teachers. Also, we have tried to maintain a high academic standard and to participate in extra-curricular activities to broaden our horizons.

In this volume of the CENTADEMIC, we endeavor to show the framework and steps of building of our academic and social development. The architectural design, which we chose as our theme, symbolizes the separate areas of knowledge and activities brought into relationship within the framework of our school life.

Dedication

We, the seniors of Central Academy School, seeing our high school life in restrospect, pause to acknowledge a debt that we owe to our parents and the parents of all Central Academy School students. By work and sacrifice, they have given us our opportunity of gaining an excellent high school education. We hope that in looking over this yearbook, they will gain a fuller understanding of the studies and recreations of Central Academy. For this reason and because we know that our family life and our school life are closely linked, we affectionately dedicate our 1963 Yearbook to the Parents and Teachers of Central Academy School.

A Brief History of Central Academy

Central Academy School was first established in Botetourt County and located at Fincastle, as Academy Hill, a non-accredited school, incorporating a high school and elementary curriculum. The course offerings included English, science, French, history and elementary subjects taught by a faculty of five teachers. The first four-year high school class graduated in 1940 under Mr. R. W. Terry, the first principal. Mr. W. L. Johns was appointed principal in 1944, and the curriculum expanded to include home economics and commercial subjects.

In 1959, a new plant was constructed under the present name, Central Academy. With the establishment of Central Academy, all elementary schools throughout Botetourt County were transferred to the new building which contained nineteen classrooms, cafeteria, library, teachers' lounge, clinic, guidance office, music rooms, and industrial arts and mechanical drawing facilities. An Industrial Arts course was added to the curriculum.

In 1961, Mr. C. L. Conyers became principal. The course offerings were divided into three programs-academics, vocational and general. Students were allowed to select their course of study. In 1962 a foreign language lab was installed. The first yearbook was published in 1962 under the cooperated efforts of a yearbook committee, directed by Mrs. D. C. Curtis and the Senior Class.

At present there is a faculty of twenty-one teachers and a staff which includes a school secretary, nurse, two cafeteria workers, two custodians and seven bus drivers.

ADMINISTRATION

SUPERINTENDENT JAMES W. OBENSHAIN

I consider the opportunity to contribute a message to your yearbook, "The CENTADEMIC" a rare privilege. Our schools are now charged with grave responsibilities. It is not sufficient that we merely meet the needs of the individual student -- we must train our boys and girls to live in and contribute toward the needs of our country. Consequently, it should be the purpose of teachers, parents, and leaders to instruct not only in academic subjects, but also in the principles of liberty, truth, justice, tolerance, and other attributes of living which are common to freedom-loving people throughout the world.

Teachers, students and parents can be justly proud of the excellent facilities at Central Academy. However, we are all aware that it takes more than good facilities to make a fruitful school. In your school you have excellent administration and a well-trained and devoted staff. There is evidence of good spirit and cooperation between teachers, students, and parents. Students at Central Academy have a wonderful opportunity to receive a good education. It is my sincere desire that all students will appreciate and take advantage of this opportunity.

To the members of the senior class, I extend my congratulations and best wishes. It is my earnest hope that each of you have received training which will provide for efficiency and success in whatever work or profession you choose to enter. I should also like to suggest that you avail yourself of every opportunity to further your education. We should all be aware that education is one of the important keys to the success of the individual and to our nation.

BOTETOURT COUNTY SCHOOL BOARD

Mr. Z. M. K. Fulton; Mr. R. E. Layman, Chairman; Mr. J. W. Obenshain, Superintendent; Dr. E. L. Coffey, Vice Chairman.

Mr. C. L. Conyers -- B.S. Degree, Savannah State College; M.S. Degree, Virginia State College; Advanced Study, Universities of Illinois and Virginia.

It is with great pleasure I congratulate the senior class, parents, friends, and the Yearbook Committee on the second publication of the CENTADEMIC.

As Seniors, you must be cognizant of the fact that education plays an important role in what you will become. In order to move more swiftly into the uncharted future, you will need to assume your rightful places in society. For that reason, when the world is at its worst, education must be at its best.

Since you will have to make many decisions, you must always stand firm and determined of your convictions. Futhermore, you must be able to respect the desire for the maturity of human beings and to support loyalty rather than demand it.

I hope that this school has provided some in-roads for your future endeavor. The educational leader of tomorrow will be centered around the one who is invited to accept responsibility, not the one who deliberately and aggressively seeks it. This leader will need insight to help chart the way to sound procedures and goals.

Finally, to be among the leaders of tomorrow, you must understand education as a responsibility of organizing human beings so that they may have faith, satisfaction, and devotion in themselves and in their leaders as they seek to improve world relationships.

Class History

We, the Senior Class of 1963, have come to the last of our high school days. In fact we might say that we have come to the last of the four seasons of our high school learning. These have not been all sunny seasons, but we can say that we have had four good seasons of learning and guidance.

As Freshmen, we were in the season of Autumn. The students coming to the new school served as the many different colored leaves on the tree. Our advisor was Mrs. A. C. Bass, and with a class of thirty-five, we began to make plans for our immediate future. During this season we were introduced to different and interesting courses of study. Two of our members became very interested in mathematics and science. These two members were awarded certificates for creditable work in mathematics and science in Staunton, Virginia at a district Science Fair. This year had its sad side, for every fall some leaves drop from the tree, and this fall was no different. Five of our members were blown away by the rough winds of on coming winter.

As we entered our Sophomore year, we were in the season of Winter. The cold, hard, winter winds brought more complex and more interesting classes to the remaining thirty students. This was our most difficult season because we had to adjust to our busy and work-filled schedule. Although that season was our most difficult, we had our achievements also. One of our members was awarded a certificate at the District Science Fair for creditable performance in Algebra I. Mrs. M. T. Fitzgerald was our advisor for that year.

The third season, Spring or our Junior year, brought with it more problems, but brighter days. We had new things to do, and new ways of doing them. This season brought us a new principal, Mr. C. L. Conyers, and four new teachers. This was a year of "Firsts" for our class, for we presented our first prom. The theme of our prom was "An Evening In Paris." Everybody eagerly joined in as one to raise the money we needed. To help raise the money the junior class presented a talent show entitled "Central Academy In Orbit." It was very successful and helped to finance our prom. That year, also, two of our classmates participated in the Science and Math Elimination Conference held in Covington. One of the participants won first place in Geometry and the other participant won first place in Intermediate Algebra. We had a very successful junior year, and our advisor, Mrs. D. Y. Johns, was very helpful in our endeavors.

Now we have come to the final season, Summer, with twenty-three class members, and Mrs. D. Y. Johns as our class advisor. We are preparing ourselves for the sunny days ahead. We have begun to prepare for our future by taking scholarship examinations and aptitude tests. To help us realize just what college is about, our advisor and principal took us to Virginia State College to "High-School Day." Our classmates are flowering this season into mature adults, by taking on the responsibility of being the leaders of the lower classmen.

One big year of our life has passed, and four seasons full of learning, experience, and work have come to an end. Now we will be entering another year, filled with never-ending seasons. This will be the "year of life."

CLASS SONG
(Tune -- May the Good Lord Bless and
Keep You

Now Dear Central we are leaving
And our hearts are filled with glee;
But you'll always be with us in our memory.

We'll remember our Alma Mater;
Here it stands so firm and bold.
Here we made our preparation to meet our goal.

CHORUS
And to our dear Mr. Conyers and our tireless faculty.
We say thanks for all your patience, and for all your sympathy.

Now Dear Central we are leaving,
Yes, our hearts are filled with glee;
But we're hoping you'll remember
The Class of Sixty-three.

Yes, we're leaving you Dear Central,
Central High, Central High, Good-Bye.
By Wanda Robinson

CLASS POEM
ROAD TO SUCCESS
By Shirley Craighead

The road ahead of us is hard and long;
The steps are requiring and demanding to trod
The days that bring our future are awaiting us
To search, to seek, to achieve and to prod.

Preparation was made in the years past
To accomplish a goal and do it well.
The accomplishments may be small or large,
But the good that's sown the capabilities will tell.

Knowledge is a stepping stone to success;
Love is a highway that's paved.
Opportunity is the signpost to aid our travel;
Are there any passengers seeking the road we crave?

God is the beginning and the end,
And his guidance is needed in whatever we endeavor.
With God as our guide to aid in our future
We can smile and rest assured in his favor.

The race is not given to the swift
The hesitant, or slothful man,
But the one who endures and succeeds in his try
Is the one who thinks he can.

Class Will

We, the Class of 1963, in sound mind and healthy physique, do make this our last will and testament. Each article here described is bequeathed to the below mentioned individuals according to the terms of this will and testament.

We hereby declare all previous promises to pay, wills or testaments made by this class as null and void.

We hereby appoint as sole administrator of this will, our principal, to administer this will and testament as he sees best.

To the faculty: We, the Senior Class, leave our sincere thanks and appreciation for helping and encouraging us to finish high school.

To the Juniors: We, the Senior Class, leave our ability to get along well with others.

To the Sophomores: We, the Senior Class, leave the courage, hope and faith to strive so that one day you too will be a graduating class.

To the Freshman: We, the Senior Class, leave our good example of being quiet in the cafeteria.

The following individuals make bequeaths:

I, Annette Johnson, will to Betty Watts, my ability to get along well with others.

I, Mintz Grey Jr., will my suave ability to James Sullivan.

I, Berrel Jean Hoosier, do bequeath to Jacqueline Redd, my integrity, ingenuity, intelligence, and ideals of certain principles.

I, Shirley Patricia Terry, do bequeath to Greta Wiley, my ability to have a good school spirit.

I, Alvin Jordan, leave to Curtis Grey, Bertha Sparrow, hoping that he will take good care of her.

I, Wanda Robinson, will to my lower classmen, my ability to recognize and strive to overcome shortcomings, and to admire, not condemn others for their beliefs and their courage to stand up for those beliefs.

I, Nellie Cooper, will to Betty Welch, my ability to stay in school and to remain friendly.

I, John David Rogers, will to Walter Noel, my hair and my charming personality and to Richard Johnson, I leave my Dramatic ability.

I, Judith Barnett, will to Mildred Journeitte my ability to do the best I can in everything in which I participate.

I, Diane Godfrey, will my smallness to Patricia Johnson, my charming personality to Josephine Martin, and my position as Senior Class President to Maria Adams.

I, Clarice Taylor, leave my ability to play the piano to Shirley Quarles.

I, Carolyn Terry, will by ability to sing to Dollie Burrell, and my sweet disposition to Catherine Bolden.

I, Linda Freeman, bequeath my legs to Wanda Burns, my smile to Viola Fennell and my lady-like voice to Gladys Traynham.

I, Carolyn Vaughn, will to Carla Gill, my waist line. To Diane Mills, Madeline and Maxine Barnett, Lilly Mae and Mary Jane Robinson, and Phyllis Lee, my quiet ways and manner around boys.

I, Carolyn Hamm, will my height to Maria Adams, and my neatness to Eleanor Clark.

I, Ruby Davenport, will my quietness to Diane Mills.

I, Doris Freeman, will my legs to Maria Adams and my typing table to George Otey with the hope that he doesn't make the same mistakes I did.

I, Annie Logan, will my complexion to Viola Fennell, may she keep it smooth and forever lovely.

I, Fannie Jones, will to Viola Fennell, and Wanda Burns, my hair, hoping that they will keep it well groomed.

I, Robbie Wilson, will to Shirley Quarles, my slimness.

I, Leroy Worrell, bequeath my "On Road" tactics to Richard Johnson.

I, Leon Waldron, will my ability, charm and friendliness to Josephine Martin.

I, Shirley Craighead, will my ability to maintain a neat appearance, a well-groomed and styled coiffure, a sense of humor, a charming personality, and a pleasing disposition, to the girls in the sophomore and junior classes.

Class Prophecy

The scene is a homecoming "get-together" for the Class of 1963, which graduated over twelve years ago. The classmates are seated in their old classroom at their dearly beloved Central Academy.

Ladies and Gentlemen, this is your Star-Light reporter, covering the biggest event of the year. Never before have so many important people been together at one time. Hold it, Hold everything! I've just spotted one of our most prominent brain surgeons, Carolyn Terry. Miss Terry is the best surgeon ever employed at Blair General. Her technique of operating on the cerebrum has yet to be equaled.

Oh, what a lovely creature! Ladies I'm sure you recognize Nellie Cooper, one of the nation's most famous fashion designers, with exclusive shops in Paris, London, and New York City.

Three of our most distinguished gentlemen are over near the punch bowl. I'm sure you recognize Alvin Jordan, an accomplished Industrial Arts teacher in Maryland; Leon Waldron, an outstanding mechanic at Cape Canaveral and Leroy Worrell who became, after completing a deficiency in high school English, one of our most dramatic playwrights.

Ladies and Gentlemen, how lucky can you get! Here, in Central Academy, we have two of the world's leading women of Science, Dr. Wanda Robinson and Dr. Diane Godfrey. Dr. Robinson is widely known among scientists for her mathematical calculations and explorations on the basic structure of the Atomic Nucleus. Dr. Godfrey, a famous X-Ray technician employed at Walter Reed Hospital, recently received the annual William Proctor Award from the Scientific Research Society of America, as one of the top scientists of the nation.

No one can deny that our teachers are of vital importance to our way of life, and the Class of 1963 returns with its share of teachers. We have Berrel Hoosier, instructor of the Sixth Grade; Clarice Taylor, teaching Algebra; Shirley Craighead Grey, a teacher of Home Economics at a Los Angeles High Shcool, and Annette Johnson, head of the Business Department at Spelman College.

Speaking of educa ors, I'd like to point out one great Educator who has been in the headlines a great deal lately, Carolyn Vaughn. Carolyn is Dean of Women at the New York City University.

Who doesn't admire David Rogers, head of a big construction company in Asia? Speaking of foreign countries, I see three members of the class who are working as secretaries for a U.S. firm in Argentina. In their spare time, they serve as goodwill ambassadors for our great United States. Here they are -- Judith Barnett, Fannie Jones and Linda Freeman.

Over near the window you should recognize two charming and famous young women, Carolyn Hamm and Doris Freeman, dietitians at Cedars Hospital. Speaking of hospitals, we have with us tonight, the two nurses who worked with the doctors at Walter Reed Hospital Laboratory where a cure for cancer was discovered, Shirley Terry and Ruby Davenport.

Well, Ladies and Gentlemen, as the homecoming draws to a close -- wait! Isn't that Mintz Grey? Mintz completed his deficiency in high school English, studied muscular therapy, and is now employed as an instructor at Vic Tanny's Health Center in New York.

Your Star-Light reporter can use one word that will adequately describe the Class of 1963 -- "Successful."

OUR ALMA MATER

Chorus:

Central, now our voices are raised
With harmony and grateful praise,
For our school we love so dear,
For our friends we've all found here.

For your lovely majestic form, which
Spreads silently o'er all this land,
Offering to us challenging roles,
Preparing us to meet our goals.

Central, true to thee we'll remain,
After we have all sort our fame.
For you smiled on us in doubts
And fears
Banishing all our child-like fears
True to thee we shall remain
O'le Central Dear
